3. Balanced Budget

Be it resolved the Colorado Republican Party supports Congress balancing the budget. Government must be fiscally responsible by curbing our national debt with long term solutions, including the elimination of earmarks, and the United States government should provide and pass a balanced budget annually on or before October 1, the beginning of the fiscal year. Congress should spend no more in any given year than was realized in revenue in the previous year. Failure to pass a balanced budget, signed by the President, should trigger an automatic reduction in governmental expenditures of 5% from the previous year's expenditures, except in a period of declared war or other extreme circumstances such as natural disasters. Exceptions should require the approval of $\frac{3}{4}$ of both the House and the Senate and should be reviewed and approved annually requiring $\frac{3}{4}$ of both houses to continue.
